

Creative Portfolio Reviews for All Artists

Creative careers are some of the most competitive out there. We've worked for free, gotten favors from friends, and have hustled in every way we knew how to get where we are. We realize we have been privileged to have the opportunities that got us here, so we are wanting to give back by offering portfolio reviews to ANYONE who needs them. This will occur on a first come first serve basis and is geared toward people at any level of their creative career. Reviews are FREE for members of the BIPOC community. We will charge a $150 hourly rate for everyone else. Number of hours can be agreed upon in advance.

Redeye has long invested in efforts to help photographers on and off our roster develop into the creatives they desire to be. We've celebrated — and truly enjoyed — the consulting process through requests for portfolio reviews and internships since our founding in 2005.
